Subcommittee Purpose

Subcommittees will develop recommendations on their assigned topic for the larger Task Force to consider including in the final report.

Considerations for Formulating Recommendations

The “Considerations for Formulating Recommendations” from the relevant memo may be used as a starting point for Task Force Members in developing recommendations. Members should also keep the following framework in mind:

- For relevant programs and services, the success achieved over the last eight-years should be considered and recommendations may build upon that success.
- Programs and services to address unmet needs.
- If possible, policy successes in other states that California can emulate.

Subcommittee Discussion Items

1. Considering the aforementioned framework, what recommendations does the subcommittee have for the Task Force to consider including in the final report?
2. What additional information do you need from the researchers to develop recommendations?

A pre-assigned note taker will record the group’s responses to the discussion items. The Subcommittee Chair will report to the larger Task Force following the breakout session.

*Subcommittees should determine a date and time for their next meeting (to be held via conference call). The call should take place prior to the Task Force’s next meeting on July 18th.
